

ALMA

Christ Church, Barbados

This charming Barbadian-styled home has been cleverly subdivided into two, separate, 2-bedroom units (sharing a party wall), each with their own entrance, parking, and a separate garage. The north section of the home was originally built in the 1800's with the south section added on in the 1950's. In 2008, the home was completely renovated and the only remaining parts of the original home are the beautiful thick coral stone walls and the solid louvred wooded doors. At the time of the renovation, the home was divided into the north and south sections.
