

ASTRA

Saint Philip, Barbados

Astra sits on a high coral cliff overlooking the sweeping arc of Foul Bay Beach on the southeast coast of Barbados. From this unique vantage, you can watch the sun rise out of the Atlantic and the sea turtles feeding below. If what you are looking for is perfect tranquility, privacy without isolation, security and serenity--but with every contemporary convenience--you will find it at Astra.

The house itself is an excellent example of island vernacular architecture, a three bedroom, two bathroom bungalow with shuttered windows on four sides and a wide verandah along the east and south side of the house, which face the beach and ocean.

The house has a 20 metre pool, with a magnificent infinity edge, set on the coral cliff with a spectacular view of the beach and bay below. The deck itself has two gazebos, one for relaxing in the shade and the other with a bar, small fridge, sink and BBQ. There is also a bathroom and shower in this area.
